

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Methods, devices and software for assessing urgency of incoming communications are disclosed. Using these, the likely urgency of an incoming communication from an originator to a recipient may be assessed using a maintained log of past incoming communications for the recipient. Upon receipt of the incoming communication the log is examined to assess the urgency, taking into account the pattern of prior communications from the originator.